Afro Pick With Black Power Fist!!

Plastic and Metal, United States, c. 1970s

The Afro Hair Pick came to popularity in the African American culture during the late 1960s and 1970s, as a prominent symbol of the natural hair movement and the Civil Rights Movement! Commonly worn in a "picked " out from, the fist sits high in the sky, symbolizing Black Power and Pride. Typically designed with long metal teeth, the comb effortlessly glides through and shapes Afro-textured hair while maintaining the structure of the natural curl pattern. The pick was a visible symbol of Cultural Pride,
